BIUENOSE HAS LEAD OF MILE

Looks Like Sure Winner Over Columbia in Today's Race, Sailed in Spanking Breeze

Halifax, Nov. 1.—With five miles to go Bluenose was a good mile in the lead over Columbia on the last leg of the fishermen's race today.

Halifax, Nov. 1.—In a sharp breeze that reached twenty knots an hour, Bluenose led Columbia by 1 m. 20s. around the third mark in today's international fishermen's race over a course of thirty-eight miles today.

The Canadian was first over the starting line, and beat the Yankee in the run to the first mark by nearly two minutes.

In the reach to the second mark the flying schooner dented the committee boat, Bluenose gybing around a minute 20 seconds ahead of Columbia.

The Yankee gained six seconds in the run to the third mark, the boats turning as follows:

Bluenose, 1:14:55
Columbia, 1:15:55

Then, close-hauled, they started the long beat to the finish line, seventeen miles away. This was to be the real test.

The course signaled was the same as for Monday's race. This gave the schooner a fair run of 14 miles to inner automatic buoy, a run of nine miles to Sunken Lightship, a hour of 12.5 miles to inner automatic buoy, and a windward thrash of 6.4 miles to the finish.

Captain Pine of Gloucester and Captain Watson of Lunenburg fought to gain the advantage down to the starting line. Captain Pine buoy, he had established a lead of 10 seconds. The Canadian got the weather berth. Official times at the start were:

Bluenose 9:56:27
Columbia 9:56:37

Wind and weather seemed made to order for Bluenose. It went off like a deer in the rippling Bluenose knot breeze and at 520, when the schooner wore off lighthouse buoy, she had established a lead of fifty-five seconds. The defender passed the buoy and limped slowly after Columbia bore away. Pine continued on Page 3, Column 1.

JOY RIDERS SPEND $1,000; ONE KILLED

Three men spent $1,000 in five hours celebrating Hal-

Here is what happened:
A roadster containing Morton E. William of No. 16 Maple street, Lynn; Phimore McNichols, No. 251 Phillips avenue, Swampscott, and Raymond B. Carles, No. 53 Allen Avenue, Lynn, left the Newburyport turnpike at 7 o'clock this morning, cut off a telegraph pole at its base, ripped away forty feet of a fence, and drove off.

W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., it was revealed today, abruptly broke with his father over the latter's insistence that the young man testify against his tempter.

Wedding left Chicago to avoid service in Mrs. Stokes' $1,000,000 suit charging defamation of character, ruled on his father at No. 317 West Seventy-eighth street, and after a stormy interview departed for its vana.

At the meeting in the Stokes home, shortly after the gray-haired plaintiff was compelled to drop 17 of the sixteen charges in his divorce complaint for lack of proof, young Stokes was asked to come to the rescue of the tottering case and explain to the jury in detail the hidden meaning in his new famous "Daring Pop" letter, written on Jan. 11, 1973, which read:

"I am sorry to say I am with a stormy interview departed for its vana."

McFarland is believed to have the most available money for any deal that might be put through. He made much in the ring, married a wealthy girl, became interested in a brewing business before prohibition, and in the last few years has gone to steel and banking in Joliet, Ill.

LAWYER HAD CHARGED BLACKMAIL

Took Donovan to See District Attorney When Shakedown Was Sprung

"I'll attend to that case when it comes up."

This was the laconic reply from Joseph C. Pelletier, then district attorney of Suffolk County, when John F. McDonald ran to him as counsel for lunch.

When John F. McDonald ran to him as counsel for lunch, he was told that the "blackmail ring" was threatening him with a $100,000 suit.

McDonald had been trapped by Mrs. Theodosia Dugan, Teddy, the ring's go-getter. The ring, according to testimony, was demanding $100,000.

So to Pelletier went Lawyer McDonald, he said at the blackmail trial in Superior Court today.

With him was his anxious client Donovan—he who paid more than $200,000 to avoid notoriety, being a married man.

If Mr. Pelletier saw fit he could have said the word and the case would have vanished in this air.

TRAPS HER PRINCE IN BATH TUB

Boston Society Woman Leads Raid on Sister's Home; Asks $100,000 Damages

New York, Nov. 1.—What does a prince do when his princess raids the apartment of her beautiful sister, to find the prince there, in the bath-tub, and the princess runs away with the prince's breeches?

That is a problem that cost court attendants wondering when the Princess Nicholas Von Lipp-Lipki filed suit for $100,000 charging that her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Schroeder, had alienated the affections of the Prince, page to the late Czar Nicholas of Russia.

In an affidavit filed in the Supreme Court the Princess, who was formerly Mrs. Wendell Phillips of Boston, and heroine of the great war, tells the story of her unexpected visit to the apartment of her sister, entering by a skylight.

The affidavit recites that the Princess, becoming suspicious of the frequent visit of her Prince to the apartment of her sister, decided to catch the prince, and took along some detectives.

The Princess is 31. Her sister is a year and a half younger. The Prince is 30. The Princess is a prettiest woman. Her sister is a "ravishing blonde with wonderful eyes."

When the Princess and the detectives played Santa Claus, says the affidavit, they found Mrs. Schroeder in her flat and various articles of the Prince's clothing scattered around about.

"I heard my husband's voice before I came in," she said.

Perhaps there was a reason why the princess should not have seen continued on Page 3, Column 1.

CARRIGAN TO BUY THE BRAVES CLUB

Marty McHale, onetime pitcher for the Boston Braves and the Yankees, said to have interested his old boss, Bill Carrigan, and Peckey McFarland, former light-weight pugilist, in a proposal that they buy the Boston Braves, according to a New York dispatch.

Carrigan, winner of two world's championships with the Red Sox, believes that he could build another winning team and a paying clientele if he had the Braves' front office.

BLASCO IBANEZ, said Spaniard, dining last Tuesday with Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, said—he doesn't speak any English—
"Pues me lo plega el cielo de la tierra está Los Angeles."

THAT SAMPLE of Blasco Ibanez's first class French with a strong accent of the kind means "For me, the most beautiful place on the earth is Los Angeles."

He added: "I am glad I don't speak English, for I want to travel all over the earth and see every corner of it. If I spoke English, I should settle down in Los Angeles, and stay there for the rest of my life."

Los Angeles real estate agents take notice.

THE QUAKERS will undertake to feed two million half-starved German children this winter. That's a pleasant contrast to "villains" nations catering to some what they can get from Germany.

Philanthropy is a word that sounds ridiculous in a civilization that murders tens of millions in the name of honor, and then saves a handful in the name of mercy. But the Quakers' benevolent investment is a good one, apart from charity.

All the money that will be spent to feed those children is less than the amount by which Steinmetz, who died lately, inherited the wealth of the United States with his own brain. What will be the total value of the thousands of German children that will be saved by the admirable work of the Quakers?

BONAR LAW will like to see Westminster Abbey, American tourists, fifty years from now, will look at his grave and ask: "Who is Hovey's name was that?" as they pass on to the place where Pitt and his father, Chatham, lie in the same grave.

Bonar Law's family will be pleased; that's what the burial is for.

THEY DUG UP CROWELL and stuck his head on a spear for every one to laugh at and let it gradually go to pieces. They dug up and assaulted the body of Voltaire. But men of that kind, real men, don't need burial in Westminster Abbey. There wouldn't be room in any building for names as big as theirs.

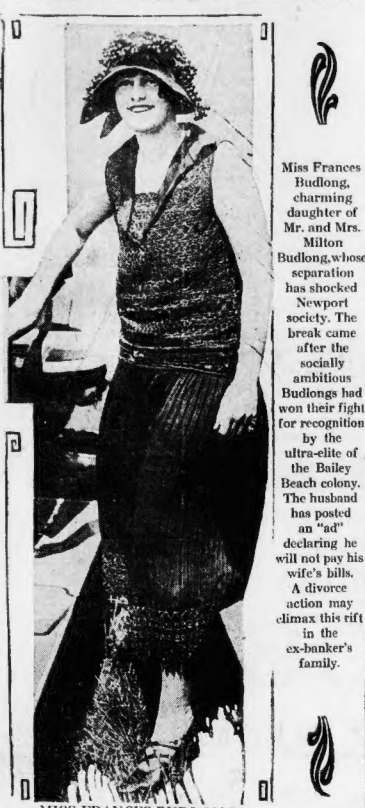

VEGETARIANS, and especially those super-enthusiasts that patiently chew raw vegetables, please read. The government shows that it takes six pounds of grain and six pounds of hay to produce one pound of lamb; ten pounds of hay and ten pounds of corn to make a pound of beef. Five and one-half pounds of corn will produce a pound of pork—which means that the animal eating the grain or hay will produce the meat.

DOESN'T common sense tell us that it is was to let the ox with no important, on hand, use his time and energy digesting ten pounds of hay and ten pounds of corn, and then hand on to us the result in one ounce of meat?

IF YOU MUST keep a cat, please, in the name of the adobe and common sense, keep the animal locked up, at least in winter time. A leading biologist shows that cats kill ten million birds in this country every year. How many million harmful insects do you suppose those birds would have destroyed had they been allowed to live?

Keep cats indoors, at least in summer. Hold mice and other things take their minds partly off the birds.

A WITTY editor says of the statement that the divorcee does not run: "Perhaps Henry realizes that the motoring public knows the difference between a Lincoln and a Ford."

MISS FRANCES BUDLONG

KEAN ACCUSED MISS DAY'S BABY BY WALTON AT SENATE TRIAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 1 (A.P.)—Governor J. C. Walton appeared for trial before a Senate court of impeachment today on charges of corruption in office, moral turpitude, willful neglect of duty and general incompetency. Twenty-two specific allegations are made in the impeachment indictment.

Preliminary legal skirmishing marked the opening session and it became known that the trial would not be under way before the first of next week.

Counsel for the executive planned to apply for a continuance of the trial on the ground that the bill of impeachment is overruled, but such a motion was opposed by the House.

The legislators are reported to be well pleased to allow Governor Walton ample opportunity to prepare his defense but not to consent to a lengthy delay.

The Governor has made no attempt to reverse statements that Ku Klux Klan members of the lower House conspired to impeach him. It is assumed he will base his defense on the Klan issue, which he says, was a mere misunderstanding.

Rumors prevail in political quarters that the Governor will resign before the trial is well begun, but are denied in official circles.

The Senate court before noon today will hear evidence in connection with Governor Walton's case.

Newport Jarred as Budlong Split After Social Climbs; Divorce Suit Hinted

Newport, Nov. 1.—There's a snag in "The Reef," and today a society along Long Island, N. Y., snickers a bit and talks of the Budlongs. The budlongs own "The Reef," a cottage that only the most patient describes.

They have separated and not only that the husband, Milton J. Budlong, retired financier, has "poached" his wife, advertising in New York newspapers that he will no longer be responsible for her bills.

Behind the Budlongs and their separation lies a story, a story that gave the Long Island set a headache a season ago. The Budlongs went to Southampton, the Newport of Long Island, leased a sumptuous cottage and attempted to "do the bit" with the rest of the set.

They promptly got a very cold shoulder. Even their beautiful daughter, Frances, who had been a social climber, was rebuffed.

Jamaica Plain Officer Is Attacked While Quelling Trouble in Cafe

Another Boston policeman was mauled by a mob today, his prisoner taken from him by a mob and the officer's weapons stolen.

Patrolman John A. Hearn of the Jamaica Plain station entered a lunch room in Eglington square to quell a disturbance. He arrested a man, whose identity is not known, and took him out.

The crowd in the lunch room followed and on the sidewalk several men were taking aim at him with revolvers.

While Hearn held the prisoner and struggled to get up his feet and revolver were taken from him and tossed into the rapidly increasing crowd of spectators.

While the prisoner officer was struggling to hold his prisoner a man who represented himself to be an officer in plain clothes apparently came to his rescue.

He held Hearn up in the street and tried to get him to return to the station. Hearn refused to return to the station.

Four warrants were procured by the Jamaica Plain police for men believed to be implicated in the affair.

William F. Fitzgerald Jr., banker's son in his newly acquired role of married man, returned to Boston today from Montreal.

He eloped there with Eleanor Whiting, Radcliffe student and Baltimore heiress. They were married last Wednesday in St. George's Episcopal Church by Rev. W. H. Major.

A Boston newspaper man who accompanied the young couple acted as best man. Two Montreal newspapers were witnesses.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom journeyed to the Ritz Hotel for a wedding breakfast.

The wedding, true to society custom, was at high noon.

The groom is the son of a State street banker. His family live in Brookline and are prominent in Boston society.

THE BOOTLEGGERS' war has raged unintermittently for ten days. Stimulants have taken place six days in succession.

The first skirmish was an attack on a truck load of beer consigned to this city from Connecticut.

The truck was held up on the Hartford Pike, a mile west of Cheshire, in the town of Foster, and in the firing that ensued, one of the rum runners was wounded.

Bootleggers and hicksters clashed the following night at Wickford. A mile distant, and within a few hours, Sheriff John R. Wilcox, was taken from a New Haven railroad train by a mob.

A man had dropped dead in the smoking car, but it did not realize that it was a man. When the train reached New Britain, the train reached New Britain, the train reached New Britain.

2 AUTOS AND HORSE BURNED IN HYDE PARK

Two automobiles were destroyed and a horse burned to death in a fire which caused $5,000 damage, in Hyde Park, owned by Mrs. Mary E. Mahoney. It is believed somebody stole the horse during the fire.

The fire broke out in the morning, setting fire to the hay. Occupants of a dwelling nearby were awakened until the fire was under control.

tion being made for a criminal process against a client of his and that he desired an opportunity to be heard before the process was issued.

LEVENSON APPEARS

I assured him he would be given that opportunity. The following morning at about 9 o'clock at the Brighton Court appeared a gentleman by the name of Levenson. I have no recollection of seeing him before that time. I would not recognize him now.

Levenson said he was there with witness and an application form for the issuance of a process against a man and a woman in the Brighton district.

At this time of morning in the lobby there were seven or eight people. Mr. McDonald and a gentleman who said he was Mr. Levenson, were there and my recollection is a woman was there.

At this point Mr. Levenson stood up at the request of Mr. Hill.

Q—Do you recognize this gentleman? A—I would not say I recognize him.

Q—Go on. A—(Continued) I believe Mr. Levenson said the woman was Mrs. Duggan.

Mrs. Duggan then stood up at request of counsel and the witness said:

Q—Would not recognize her. Q—Had you seen this woman before? A—So far as I am aware, no.

DUGGAN THERE

Q—Have you ever seen her since? A—I don't recall I have.

Q—Go on. A—(Continued) There was also there a gentleman said to be Duggan, alleged to be the husband of the woman.

At this point Duggan stood up. "I do not recognize him," said the witness.

Q—Go on. A—(Continued) I believe Mr. Corcoran was present in the lobby at the time, representing Mrs. Duggan.

Q—You refer to Mr. William J. Corcoran? A—I refer to Mr. William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex County. Mr. McDonald was there representing Mr. Donovan. Whether it is in the lobby or the courtroom my recollection is that I saw Mr. Levenson.

Q—Michael J. Lyons? A—Yes. Michael J. Lyons. There were two or three others on the threshold or in the immediate vicinity of my lobby. I do not recall who they were.

Q—Do you know Theodore Bourne? A—I do not.

MERCURY WAS AT FREEZING POINT

Boston and New England are experiencing a freezing temperature for the first time this season. The present cold spell just missed hitting October by about six hours, when, beginning at midnight, with the mercury at 35, it plunged steadily downward until at 8 a. m. today, it had reached 30, two degrees below the freezing point.

Temperatures throughout New England are reported as being down to the freezing point and below at some points. There is a general cold spell from here to the Middle West in several parts in Canada it was much colder.

The forecast is for fair weather for tonight and Friday and somewhat warmer tomorrow.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 1.—(Western) New York was blanketed with snow today. Two inches fell here with a temperature of 32 degrees.

MRS. STOKES ON WITNESS STAND

Heien at Narragansett Pier this fall. Directly after the receipt of the note Stokes filed suit for divorce.

The seriousness of the charge.

Mrs. Stokes W. E. D. Stokes

astounded me so that at first I was dissatisfied to believe it. My son then asked me if I would credit the accusation if he would put it in writing and sign his name to it, so I made out an affidavit and had him swear to it.

LETTER FURNISHED

Stokes placed this document so highly that he sent every newspaper a copy of it. He withdrew it, however, when he saw that it was being written by Weddell to Mrs. Stokes denying the charge.

Young Stokes, who is now twenty-seven, was named in his father's first suit as a co-defendant and accused of intimacy with Mrs. Stokes when he was not quite fifteen.

When pressed to come to the aid of his father, Weddell, whose mother, Mrs. Rita d'Arceville Lyden, divorced Stokes in 1906, said that he had sufficient troubles of his own setting a defense to Mrs. Stokes' suit without attempting to bolster up an affidavit that he had repudiated.

SIMPLY TAX BLANK FOR WAGE-EARNERS

Wage earners and small salaried men—$950,000 of them—will escape the worries of paying the Federal Income Tax blank through the issue by the government of a new form. This, known as 104-A, is a simple affair for those whose chief income is from salaries or wages not more than $5,000. Persons not of whose income is derived from business or profession, such as property or rents, must use Form 104-A, a three-column six-page device of mental torture. This form is also for persons with salaries over $5,000.

SOFT COAL DROPS ON OVER-PRODUCTION

New York, Nov. 1.—Production of soft coal has been so much larger than consumption that some large operators have reduced contract prices to keep the coal moving, according to a report today by "The Coal Age." Demand for soft coals is also reported increasing. September production amounted to 2,615,000 net tons, a decrease of 2,140,000 tons from August output. With anthracite in reported well being, the Boston district alone playing orders for nearly 110,000 tons last week.

New York, Nov. 1.—Bill Lovett, World War veteran and leader of Brooklyn's most notorious gangster, the "white hand gang," was shot and beaten to death today by an unknown assailant.

His body, the head battered in, was found by a patrolman who has daily searched the gangster headquarters in a tenement in the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge.

Lovett, veteran of many grim gang battles, had an intimate acquaintance with the police. On several occasions he was arrested on suspicion of murder but he managed to regain his freedom each time.

Three bullets were pumped into him last January, and for weeks it was believed the wounds would prove mortal. But throughout his fight for life, even when told his chances were but slender, he refused to tell the name of his assailant.

Just before that Lovett had surrendered to the police on learning he was sought in connection with the murder of Donald MacLean.

He also was charged with having shot and killed James G. Len, another gangster, and was questioned concerning the murder of Thomas Quilly, member of a rival

THOUSANDS OF IMMIGRANTS LAND HERE

East Boston and South Boston piers looked like a combination of Italy, Ireland, England, Scotland and a few other European countries as thousands of November immigrants ashore with their varied assortments of strange appearing baggage.

The Cunard liner Carmania was the first to dock in the November race to beat the immigration quota. She docked at South Boston with a total of 1,835 passengers, mostly immigrants from Ireland, Scotland and England. Close on her heels was the White Star liner Memphis from Liverpool and Queenstown with 900 cabin and 393 third class passengers. They were loaded at the Commonwealth pier.

The White Star liner Italia is in the offing with 500 more. The Leyland liner Devonian is due with others. The Canadian Stamira with 2096 passengers is expected at any hour while ships from Italy are just outside the harbor waiting to unload. All told a total of 8,500 passengers will be landed today and tomorrow.

New York, Nov. 1.—Immigration quotas from virtually every foreign country for 1923 will be exhausted when the 23,000 aliens, arriving at American ports today and tomorrow on twenty-two liners, have been examined. The present monthly rush is one of the heaviest of the year. Ellis Island this week is faced with the problem of handling 13,000 aliens. Commissioner of Immigration Henry H. Cullen announced but tension will be relieved by diverting eleven immigrant laden liners to other ports.

"THE EMPEROR JONES" A "FLIVVER" IN PARIS

Paris, Nov. 1.—Eugene O'Neill's play, "The Emperor Jones," which opened here at the Theatre De L'Odéon last night, as about as impressive as a motion picture film of a salmon fishery, according to one Parisian critic. In general the reviewers were silent and except in a few instances the production which was for the benefit of a Franco-American fund to erect a monument in memory of athletes killed during the war, failed to make any impression. The play was given a magnificent setting. The French colored tenor, Benaglia, took the part of the Emperor, and was much applauded.

Mrs. Bremer Aids Buds in Rehearsal of Fairy Dance For Shakespeare Festival, Betty Alden Reports

By BETTY ALDEN

WHEN the Atlantic City Boardwalk came to Boston last winter, I recall that Mr. S. Parker Bremer was one of the prime figures of the Boardwalk Theatre.

Mrs. Bremer is a singer of no mean ability and is frequently heard at this or that smart charity function. During the run of the Boardwalk Theatre, she appeared, with others of her select coterie, in a Chinese number in which she wore a particularly gorgeous mandarin coat. Mrs. Bremer is tall, and of the distinct blonde type, and has three daughters, the Misses Mabel and Ruth Bremer and Mrs. Henry H. Baxton (Edith Bremer), the last-named one of the very loveliest brides of June. Miss Ruth Bremer, by the way, is one of this season's buds, and had a dinner given for at the Chilton Club the other evening.

Mrs. Bremer is keenly interested in the Repertory Theatre and the Francis Jewett Repertory Club, for whose benefit so-city folk are staging a Shakespearean festival later at the Copple-Plaza. Last week Mrs. Bremer opened her Marlboro street home for a rehearsal of the fairy dance from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," in which some of the most attractive buds of the season are to trip the light fantastic. Among the latter is Miss Katherine Gray, bud daughter of the James Cunningham Grays, at well as the Misses Margaret Baxley, Elizabeth Covel, Mary Otis and Nancy Vose.

Mrs. P. Lothrop Ames and her family will be at No. 413 Commonwealth avenue for the Winter. Mrs. Ames, who spent the summer on the Maine coast with her young son and daughter, recently sold her home on Dartmouth street to the Edwin S. Webster.

MISS Katherine Gray, who can very well hold her own at sailing a boat and wielding a racket, will have a luncheon given tomorrow in her honor by Mrs. Francis Gray, Miss Gray, they will remain until the middle of the month.

THERE is a Boston interest in the wedding of Miss Josephine Van Rensselaer Bond and Clement Leonard which will be solemnized very quietly on Saturday in Baltimore. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Hugh Leonard Bond of the Grille Club, is mourning for her father. The groom is a son of the late Clement L. Bond and a brother of Mrs. John Wendell (Gwened) Bond of Boston.

FORGET-ME-NOT CUP DONATED BY CURLEY

Mayor Curley has donated a prize cup to be awarded by Mrs. Nathaniel Emmens, chairman of the committee in charge of "Forget-Me-Not" days, Friday, Saturday, November 3 and 4, to the Boston girl who does most in the sale of flowers in aid of disabled veterans of the World War.

On those days, 49 Boston girls, selected from among the ranks of society "dolls" and "rub-dolls," handsome girls, working girls and representatives of girls' clubs, will sell forget-me-nots on city streets under direction of qualified chaperones.

YARMOUTH WOMAN IS KILLED BY AUTO

Yarmouth, N. S., Nov. 1.—When Gladys Devine, seeing a sedan woman hurled from the street by an automobile, went to pick her up, he found it was his own mother who had been hit. The car was driven by Joseph Height. The woman died from her injuries in Yarmouth Hospital.

Christmas is a-coming

The refrain of the old song bids you take warning, for "Christmas is a-coming." Hallowe'en with its witches and broomsticks will give place to Thanksgiving with its turkey and all his fixings. Then comes smiling Christmas, jostled by eager children and loved by all the world.

At Christmas, friends of long ago come to mind—boys with whom we coasted, girls whom we met at parties, uncles and aunts of pleasant memory, acquaintances of a summer holiday, and many others who helped to mark our red-letter days.

To all of them we wish to send greetings on the day when all the world is glad. So Christmas cards grave or gay, sentimental or serious, formal or informal, depending upon one's preferences, go fluttering down the long pathways of friendly remembrance.

We urge you to come in soon to select your Christmas cards, so that you may have just the ones that you wish. We have received some very unusual English and French as well as some beautiful American cards.

COP SPENT TIME WEEKLY ON SELF; ASKS DIVORCE

For twenty-two years, Patrolman James A. Milles of the Newton police force says he has turned his time weekly pay over to his wife, except for one dime each week, which the patrolman reserved for his "eating tobacco" fund.

And for that reason, and a number of others—Patrolman Milles has asked Judge Leggat in the Middlesex District Court to grant him a divorce from Mrs. Ellen Milles. Patrolman Milles told Judge Leggat that from the time he went on the force until 1921, $114.40 represented the entire amount he had spent on himself, and that this money had been spent for tobacco. Milles charged his wife had spent most of his salary for liquor, and that for fifteen years she was habitually drunk three nights a week. He charged her with smoking a pipe and smoking from the weed. He further stated that his wife was cruel and abusive in her treatment of him. He further charged her with attempting to shoot him with his own revolver one night twelve years ago. Mrs. Milles is contesting the suit.

BLUEHOSE LEADS COLUMBIA IN RACE

evidently having decided to abandon the attempt to get to weather of the defender. They made the first mark in jigtime, turning as follows:

Bluehoe, 9:41:16.
Columbia, 9:41:16.

After leaving the first mark and heading for the reach to the south-east, Bluehoe, ditching in the freshening breeze and flying sea, fairly leaped ahead and at 9:55 was rapidly dropping Columbia astern. The wind was steadily increasing.

At ten o'clock the wind had increased to twenty-five knots. Both schooners were carrying everything they had. It was estimated that Bluehoe had a lead of upwards of a mile.

The great boat, Lady Lanchester, started in the lead, was unable to keep up with the flying fish.

Bluehoe and Columbia both ticked around the second mark, a gibby position in the wind of the day. The times were:

Bluehoe, 10:16:16.
Columbia, 10:16:16.

When they squared away on the third leg, a run of 8 miles down the wind to station Gas Bay, Columbia was on top.

REAL TEST TO COME.
Bluehoe was holding a lead of a third of a mile. It was evident that the real test of race would come when the schooners round the next mark and headed on the wind for the dead end to the finish line. The challenger was a little more behind the defender in the latter's water.

At 10:41 Bluehoe dodged her wayward and seaward, forced over to starboard, Columbia fell wing and wind for the mark.

At eleven o'clock the schooners were within two miles of the third mark. Both vessels were running with scudding.

At 11:10 as the schooners were approaching the fourth mark, the parent that Columbia had still further ahead of her was evident.

The boat turned the third mark as follows:
Bluehoe, 11:15:16.
Columbia, 11:15:16.

Bluehoe took in her foretopmast when she rounded the mark and did not set it again on the beat to windward. As the Columbia came about it was seen that she pointed slightly less than Bluehoe.

At 11:25 both schooners were on the starboard tack headed for the station, two miles away. The defender seemed to be making better weather than the challenger.

At 11:30 Bluehoe was making better going in the freshening breeze. A check at this hour was topping twenty-seven knots. At 11:31 Columbia closed up her foretopmast and both schooners were under the same sails.

The defender was outgunning and outpacing the challenger. Bluehoe came about on the port tack at 11:54 and Columbia followed at 11:57. The defender was half a mile to the weather.

WIND UP TO 32 KNOTS
At 12:05 both boats were making heavy weather in the increasing wind, at this hour topping thirty knots. The challenge was advanced approximately the same distance on the reach with the Bluehoe fifty-three-quarters of a mile to weather.

At 12:10 the schooner was on the port tack, standing across the mouth of the harbor. Bluehoe was still clawing to weather of challenger and her better accident would with the race and the trophy be considerable margin. The wind was howling at thirty knots.

At 12:45 Columbia came about and was on the starboard tack heading for Halifax Harbor. Bluehoe followed suit and it was seen that she had a commanding position. It was thought that both schooners could weather the inner harbor without another tuck.

PRINCESS SUES JOW RIDE FATAL TO LNN MAN

her lead and master at that particular moment. They were pinned beneath the car.

Mr. Shay's version, when the detectives gained entrance to Mrs. Schroeder's boudoir, the prices were missing. But he, Mr. Shay, told this part:

"The detectives found the price in the bath. Yes, it is true that the princess had the detective remove his clothes—they marched right out with them."

Mr. Shay said a key to Mrs. Schroeder's apartment was found in the vest which the detectives took away.

SCORN DIVORCE.
The princess, it is said, doesn't want a divorce. She wants him to be divorced, and is still "wildly infatuated with him."

The suit against Mrs. Schroeder might be termed a divorce-warning, a "hands off" signed by the princess to the world in general, and Mrs. Schroeder in particular.

The princess is thirty-seven, the prince thirty. Mrs. Schroeder is a year and a half younger than the princess. The latter is a charming, with beautiful, undulating hair and fair eyes that speak a thousand things to those who can read them.

During the World War the princess—then Mrs. Phillips—served in the women's overseas forced service hospitals, and was wounded when the title of the Free State, it is declared, unless specially employed for the purpose, in which case permission from the British Home Office would be necessary.

Mrs. Schroeder's husband, William, was a wealthy Brooklyn resident, who died a year ago, leaving her a fortune. He was said to have been under surveillance as an enemy agent during the war.

The prince and Mrs. Phillips were married in St. Peter's Church in Portmanteau, May 15, 1917. They kept the name of the wedding secret for many days.

MET NINE YEARS AGO.
According to the princess, she and the prince met in Petrograd nine years ago. Their acquaintance was renewed when he came here, after escaping the Russian revolution. At the time of marriage he was connected with the Federal Acceptance Corporation.

The prince, said to be a millionaire of no mean repute, is credited with devising certain lighting effects which are used by Pavlov, when the dancers of eternal love.

AUTOMATIC RUM PLANT RAIDED IN NORTH END

Twenty gallons of moonshine at hour.
That is the rate of production at a plant in North End, raided by the police on the fourth floor of a house on Commercial street, North End.
And what is more surprising, the work seemed to be going on automatically. For there was no person supervising the wholesale manufacture of the liquor when the police arrived.
However, the police say they know the identity of the owners of the moonshine plant and they expect to make an arrest. The rest of the building is used for the manufacture of candy.
Captain Arthur McConnell of the Hanover street station led the raid. Two stills, one of 200 gallon, and the other of 300 gallon capacity, which were in full operation, were seized.
In addition to the stills, 100 gallons of moonshine, 400 gallons of candy and other paraphernalia were seized.

SUED BY SPOUSE, MAN ALLEGES POISON PLOT

At the hearing in the East Cambridge Probate Court on the third petition of Mrs. Harriet Southworth, a divorcee from her husband, Harry Southworth, a railway man, and for the custody of their "much-misnamed" child, Elizabeth, both husband and wife testified that each feared for life while they live together.
Mrs. Southworth told the court her husband had threatened her with a revolver and that he was a drinker.
Southworth testified he had been in constant fear of poisoning at the hands of his wife and as a result had refused to eat his meals with her.
Charles Armstrong, sixteen years old, a son of Mrs. Southworth by a former marriage, corroborated his mother concerning the drinking habits of his stepfather.
Following the hearing, the mother followed her husband and child for a block from the courthouse. When the child refused to respond to her calls, the mother became hysterical and was taken home in a taxi automobile. The hearing was continued to today.

SCIENCE WILL TAKE INSULIN FROM FISH

New York, Nov. 1.—The price of insulin has been dropping rapidly because it has been found possible to extract it from all mammals, and is soon to be taken even from fish, according to Dr. Benjamin Dubovsky, head of the Diabetes Clinic of People's Hospital. It has been found that the substance is produced by plants and has been extracted in the laboratory from plant tissues.

The price of insulin is today about half of what it was last Summer. Early in the year physicians were unable to obtain insulin to meet the demands of alarmed patients, but it is said to be available now in quantities sufficient for all the diabetic patients in the country.

ADVERTISING MAN LIKES
DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

Mr. W. H. Benson of Baltimore had considerable worry about his daughter. For over a year he was kept in anxiety, but it seems from the following letter that he and his daughter are both worry-free now:

"I have been talking about your Dr. True's Elixir. It is great stuff! The Elixir is doing good work for my daughter; please send us two bottles. Yours for health."—W. H. Benson.

Score and scores of such letters show us that Dr. True's Elixir has been most successful for use in relieving constipation. Watch these symptoms: Constipation, sour stomach, hiccups, cramps, eyes heavy and dull, bad breath, all gone feeling, headaches. Legal, Probably

Is It Wise?

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

In one city 244 Ku Kluxers are arrested, locked up for parading in full regalia. This is legal and all right if the laws justify it. For men to parade through public streets in nightgowns, hoods or any other preposterous costume seems not a very intellectual amusement.

The important question, however, is, is it wise to make a foolish thing strong through what may seem persecution or discrimination?

In Mexico a representative of the Pope was expelled from the country merely because he had attended the dedication of a religious monument in a public thoroughfare, the priests of the church necessarily wearing their official raiment at the dedication.

The Mexican law says that such raiment must not be worn in public streets in Mexico. Anybody who knows anything about history knows that there could be no more effective way of strengthening the Catholic church. Why not let everybody dress and parade as he pleases, holding him responsible for what he actually DOES?

Special rules might be necessary in connection with the wearing of hoods or masks, for such disguises make it impossible to identify and punish those guilty of illegal acts. But the less "repression," the better for the common welfare.

If people are in the wrong let them go, with strict accountability for their acts, as far as they like, and they will be cured eventually by their own foolishness. Repression is always dangerous—to those that repress.

Cowardice Dangerous to All

The Timid Holdup Men

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

The most dangerous quality in man is cowardice. It ruins him and ruins others. Cowards cause crime. Some are too cowardly to work, too cowardly to endure a hardship. And as criminals they are so cowardly that they kill from FEAR, thus causing their own death if caught.

Watch in any courtroom criminals coming up for sentence. You see underdressed, timid, miserable creatures, shrunken in mind and body. No man need fear them, except that they come armed and with deadly weapons and use them through fear.

A grocer, about to lock up for the night, saw two very young men enter his shop, while a third stood at the doorway. When they approached him, they shook and their mouths twitched so that they could not speak. The grocer, in his dying statement, later said he suspected the youths intended to be bandits, but he was AMUSED at their evident cowardice.

He did not know how deadly cowardice could be. For when he asked roughly, "Well, what do you want?" the boy at the door, the "lookout," fired his revolver three times, at the risk of killing his fellow bandits, then all three fled. And the grocer is dead, killed by cowardice that pulled the trigger.

The disease that breeds in the slums threatens the children in the fine house on the hill. The cowardice bred in half-starved, half-starved bodies and ignorant brains, threatens the prosperity that says, "I am not my brother's keeper." Make better, stronger, braver human beings, and you will have a safer world to live in.

Is the "Wet" Cause Lost?

President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard Declares That Statistics Show That It Is

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, told the Federation of Churches of Greater Boston the other evening that the "wet" cause was lost. He called the attention of his audience to the fact that statistics of prohibition spelled success; that rumors and underground reports about prohibition were practically all the "wets" had to encourage them.

This is true. Whenever you go into authentic figures you will find that they lend astonishing support to the cause of prohibition. Whenever you deal in whispers and in parlor conversation you may hear that prohibition is a failure. But the figures of the slumhouses, and of the jails, and of the poorhouses, and the statistics of landladies and of the butcher and the baker and the candlestick-maker and the department store and the automobile dealer, all indicate by overwhelming evidence that prohibition is a success.

If you do not think that it is a success, go from door to door in a district where the saloons used to be, and talk with the women whose husbands used to come staggering home nearly every Saturday night with half the contents of their pay envelope gone. They will tell you, and their votes will tell you, that prohibition is a success.

Of course it is going to be more of a success when it is more honestly enforced. But it is a big success even now when those whose duty it is to enforce it are trying to do as little as they can.

Harvard Business School

The Harvard Business School has begun a campaign to raise $350,000, which it must have for meeting its increased demands. We hope that the campaign will be successful.

The success of the school under Dean Donham is considered by competent men who have investigated it to be really remarkable. The theory of instruction is extraordinary, and, if the results are what they are said to be, a new field for instruction has been opened.

One of the great advantages of the school is that it does not begin to teach business specialties until the students have had the broadening of a good general education.

MOUNTAIN COMES UP FROM SEA

CAPTOWN, Nov. 1.—The cable ship Britannia, which has sailed from Britain, has arrived at Capetown, reports that the great under-ocean convulsion on August 4 threw up a vast new mountain, as high as the Matterhorn, in the bed of the Atlantic. The mountain is seven miles high and ten thousand feet in breadth.

Hard Struggle

Editor Helping Hand: Would some kind reader help me out? I am a mother of four, and my husband lost home three years ago. I have been struggling since. Now my oldest boy, sixteen, has been sick for the last four months with rheumatic fever. He has just come home from the hospital last week. With someone send a warm blanket for him and a sweater, as the doctor said he must be kept warm, and I can't afford to buy them for him. I am the only support of the family, and making such small wages that they all go for food and rent. If someone had a warm coat, size 34, for me to go to work in, I would appreciate without a coat and it is getting cold. Also shoes, size 4 1/2, would help me greatly. MRS. D. C. 6.

Thank you. The two dollars was forwarded to Mrs. M. G. and has helped her a lot, and she is very grateful to her unknown benefactor.

Tipping

Editor Boston American: May I comment on Taxi Driver's letter of Oct. 25? May I ask why should the traveler pay the salary of taxi drivers, porters and waitresses? Are not taxi drivers well paid? Haven't they a wage scale? I believe they have. And is it the fault of the traveler that the porters who give their best and faithful duty have to rely entirely upon the generous public to assume all of the expense?

The tip certainly has lost its place as a reward and such articles as written by Taxi Driver certainly would not encourage a man to lay his small change aside to use for that purpose, as he really encourages a very bad example when porters, waitresses and taxi drivers gamble to live on the generosity of the public as he admits what he states that they receive little or no wages from the person or persons who employ them.

SNATCHED FROM ONE SCABBARD TO FILL ANOTHER

By Herbert Kaufman

ADOPTING the style of correspondents in the London Times famous "Agony Column":

If the gentleman, overheard in Colgrove's restaurant, Seattle, offering objection to the writer's "isolation" convictions will refer to his own income tax statement and national expert figures, these significant indicators should demonstrate why democracy and prosperity protest against entangling alliances.

Minding other folks' business, under the mistaken notion that we were protecting our own, has left us with a burden: which several generations must sustain.

No Wool Pulled Over Aesop's Eyes

We broke tradition and rejected George Washington advice to keep out of overseas broils because we were assured that wars, misunderstandings, bad faith and conquest might thereby be ended.

We went abroad to fight for causes, not countries; to defend ideals of civilization, not alternative ambitions for power. We helped destroy militarism on the east bank of the Rhine, only to re-establish it on the west.

Behold! Hollow's "scrap of paper" is succeeded by Poincare's impudent debt repudiation. The sabre, snatched from a Toulon scabbard, now rattles as noisily in a French one.

Wilhelmstrasse contempt for outside opinion is paralleled by Quai d'Orsay disregard of universal attitudes.

Oppressed countries, which we financed without stint or security, since repay samaritanism by discriminatory treaties and do their big buying in competitors' shops.

Billions lavished upon allies have mainly been diverted to furnishing of armies, the strengthening of defence and the creation of economic locks to exclude American foodstuffs and manufactures.

We refused the guidance of Washington and Jefferson, but it isn't too late to remember Patrick Henry! Experience alone tells us how to judge the future.

Read history and locate the pitfalls of races. Read Frankenstein and learn what happens when men deal with forces beyond their control. Read Aesop and realize how little the centuries have changed human nature.

Even the ancient Greeks were against the ungrateful serpent's sting.

Bulls in Hope's China Shop

Senator Medill McCormick, whose earlier background includes the diplomatic life of Paris and St. Petersburg, where his distinguished father was U. S. Ambassador, speaks with the authority of that environment, fortified by recent conferences with Europe's principal statesmen.

Read his reflected estimate of Poincare and the futility of attempting the restoration of German credit. French demobilization or the reconstruction of industry abroad via the Hughes route.

McCormick's views on the appointment of certain Congress bankers to the Debt Commission presage how Congress is apt to regard, as American representative, any financier "who profited as a foreign fiscal agent during the war, and who holds, for self and clients, French obligations which he wishes to maintain superior to those due our government."

J. P. Morgan, reputedly in receipt of a semi-official invitation to preside over an expert survey of the reparations situation, is reported to state that such a committee would be "the merest farce" unless France is bound by its recommendations and undertakes to render them effective.

The trap under is set, but we're not caught yet.

Bulging Shins—And Pockets

"The bulging shin" makes its entrance at Sacramento, "due to stepping on the accelerator." The number of co-eds with unmatched legs alarms their physical director. Longer skirts or shorter rides, young ladies!

Golfers may assure themselves of an exclusive game by paying ten thousand dollars admission fee to the new golf club in process of organization at Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson.

Patriots, with their millions safely tucked away in tax-exempt investments, must have some way to spend their incomes. It will be interesting to note how many of the members have contributed ten thousand dollars to homes for crippled boys and Braille books for the blind.

Now Let's Study Child-Culture

Morrow Willessey, three years old, wouldn't govern his temper and was paddled for it. Consequently he screamed all the louder, worked himself into a heart-straining rage and fell dead.

Common sense long since tore the unreasoning rod from correction's hand. Whatever a parent can't explain to a tot, a blow won't make manifest.

Whipped colts are never tractable horses. The buckle is born under the spur. A flogged and intimidated boy either hardens under chastisement or becomes a cowering, quailing, evasive youth.

We've discovered a few truths that Biblical scribes didn't sense.

Any more than Solomon anticipated agriculture by artificial sunlight. The Westinghouse company, co-operating with Columbia botanists and engineers, canals floral nation rules and compels flowers and vegetables to work over time.

One hour's sleep in twenty-four proves sufficient for plants; double greenhouse crops and germination in half nature's time is promised as a result of the experiments.

FIGHTING FATE

Hoodooed by an Evil Emerald
Jinxed With Amazing Beauty
Unlucky in Love and Marriage
Cursed by the Drug Demon

Why the Bride of the "Match King" Is About Ready to Abandon Her Struggle for Love

Mrs. Annabelle
Landgren,
Who Declares Her Husband's
Charges of Drug-Addiction
Are False.

HOODOOED by a four-fold "hoodoo," Mrs. May Annabelle Leonore Van Allen Ottman Fuller Landgren, "June of Louisville" and once-adored wife of Eric C. Landgren, New York's "match millionaire," is fighting desperately the fate that threatens to drag her from her lofty pinnacle of beauty, popularity and power.

Most persons, so they will tell you, are dogged by some sort of jinx. It is usually trivial, and may be merely a tendency to catch colds or miss trains. Or it may seem to have some more serious import, apparently wrecking plans, ruining romances and consuming happiness, complete, in the white heat of disaster.

"But it has remained for me," says Mrs. Landgren, "to suffer the 'slings and arrows of outrageous fortune' in quadruple form." Charged by her handsome, gold-lined young husband with drug-addiction; taxed with having changed from an "ideal mate" to an hysterical, suicidal "cave woman" after their wedding; declared to have married four times before she met him, and now sued for annulment and separation, Mrs. Landgren moans in rejoinder:

"The four curses have forced me into this awful situation! Till something snaps this spell, I can never hope for lasting happiness!"

Her belief in these "curses" constitutes a unique chapter in marital tragedy. Whether one credits their potency, one cannot fail to be fascinated with the fantastic, colorful features of her life-story.

The first jinx to enter Mrs. Landgren's existence, she asserts, was her "evil emerald," an heirloom said to deal love-woes wherever its glittering, green rays are cast. The stone, of stainless purity and superb cut, is at present embedded in the pendant of a necklace. The magnificent gem was willed to Mrs. Landgren by her maternal grandmother, Lady Muriel Gibbs, wife of an intimate friend and court favorite of the late King Edward VII of Great Britain.

Lady Gibbs bequeathed the emerald to her daughter, Annabelle Gibbs, who married into the aristocratic Van Allen family of Kentucky. "And," continues Mrs. Landgren, "her heart broke, and she died. Don't ask me the details; they are too pathetic. But as to the emerald, I shall never wear that phony thing again. During my bitterest troubles it always glittered at my throat. Now I've locked it up where it can't harm anyone."

The most ironic part of the "jeweled jinx" is the fact that it was originally supposed to act as a good-luck love-charm. When it came into Lady Gibbs' possession it was wrapped in a bit of tattered paper bearing these verses:

"She who first beholds the light of day
In the flowery month of May,
And wears an emerald all her life
Will be a loyal and happy wife."

Mrs. Landgren
Wearing the Necklace to Which Hangs
the "Evil Emerald," Willing to Her by Her Grandmother.

This pleasant prophecy to date lacks fulfillment, perhaps because another family tradition is that the beautiful women of the line are marked for misfortune. No wonder, then, that Mrs. Landgren has come to dread the "spell" of the gem. For it was her radiantly vivid coloring, her delicately cut lips, her wavy red-dish hair, and her dainty, well-molded hands that first attracted, then fascinated, then enchanted Landgren. Chief of her many charms are her gorgeous locks, thickly luxurious and of titian tint.

The "match millionaire" wooing was impetuous, irresistible. He met his wife-to-be in the Far West, where she had moved from Kentucky, and where, as a San Francisco belle, she held high sway over a large circle of both men and women admirers.

Landgren, a graduate of Lund University, Sweden, and head of the marketing forces of the great Swedish match industry, was popular, too. So when society, dwelling over its morning papers, read in May, 1922, that the young couple had been married in the St. Francis Hotel the previous day, society nodded approvingly. Landgren had met his bride a year before their wedding while she was living in New York City. Her loveliness had not permitted her to elude matrimony. Several years previous George P. Fuller, the Frisco paint king, and the "June of Louisville" had been parted from another husband, Harry Ottman, a Colorado millionaire, with whom she, at fifteen, had eloped from a convent.

There were, at varying intervals, two other husbands, Landgren now hotly adds, but he does not identify them specifically. To all this Mrs. Landgren is rejoicing that she sacrificed $3,500 worth of monthly alimony to become the "match millionaire's" wife.

Be that as it may, the Landgren nuptials at the time seemed ideal. The stately, bronze-tressed Annabelle of the blue-blooded Van Alens, born of a father who was professor of languages at the University of Michigan and of a mother who achieved vogue as a society songstress—the stalwart, blonde, extremely affluent Eric, heroically Viking-like in build and bearing—that said the chatterboxes, could be more advantageous for both.

But the gossip's guesses went all awry. For a time the newlyweds seemed to be leading the docile lives of devoted doves. And then—Crash! went the romance which the wisecracks had said was granted—shock-proof, burglar-protected and fire-insured. For Landgren filed an action in the New York County Supreme Court, the Landgrens were then living in the East, containing astonishing charges against the ex-"ideal mate," now termed a "cave woman."

Here are some of the striding accusations he hurled at her, and to all of which she indignantly shouted "NO!"

"That the defendant was a drug-addict and had been in the habit of taking morphine and other narcotics long prior to her marriage; that she had continued the use of drugs after the marriage, despite every effort on the part of the plaintiff to cure her of the habit."

"That immediately upon the plaintiff's discovery of the defendant's condition, he summoned medical aid, and at all times has done everything in his power and has expended large sums of money in his attempt to cure her of her habit, but that none of his efforts has been of any avail."

"That at times the defendant, as a result of drugs, would become desperately ill, even to the extent of temporarily losing her mind."

He went even further. On their very wedding night, the "match millionaire" claims, the "Louisville June" was seized by a narcotic spasm and threatened to jump from the window of their room. Later, while they were dining publicly in New York with another woman, his wife was thrown into hysterics by the sight of a man nearby, whom "she told the plaintiff, she had promised to marry while the plaintiff was away." So says Landgren, who adds that he reached the end of his patience when Mrs. Landgren packed up her personal belongings and disappeared from their handsomely appointed apartment.

As to all this lovely Mrs. Landgren has a few things to say, and here are some of them:

"Certainly I tried to jump from that window. I had just left a sanatorium, where I had been recuperating from a serious illness. I was a semi-invalid and, naturally, not quite myself. An episode had been found necessary to pull me through the after-effects of a grave operation. The episode of the restaurant is almost wholly fanciful. And speaking of packing up and departing with personal belongings, why, that's just what Eric and I did."

"While I was out shopping one day he assembled everything we had and left me stranded. A million dollars' worth of fur coats, all mine, he stored away secretly, and he put all our silverware in the Gorham vault."

"So run charges and countercharge of the Kentucky beauty and the convicted 'Viking.' And Mrs. Landgren, shuddering at the thought of the 'four curses,' rubs her titan head sadly and sighs, 'What a terrible thing a hoodoo jewel has! I had it from my grandmother's estate, perhaps I wouldn't have had to face the four-cornered fight with the fate that I do to-day!'"

VI. That the defendant concealed from the plaintiff two of her previous marriages and the plaintiff believed that the defendant had been married but at least four prior marriages.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

THIS health departments in several cities have started campaigns to get rid of cats. In doing this they have broken up homes in hundreds of alleys.

ANY cat who starts a vocal lesson on your back fence is liable to finish it in the nearest refuse can.

THESE cats have been receiving so much attention that for a while they thought it was old home week.

THESE board of health is paying a nickel a piece for howling felines. One guy who lived in a neighborhood that was thickly populated with cats, cleaned up $7.50 in two nights.

OF course he wouldn't have made this much only he turned in three Angoras and six Persian kittens.

THESE were the hardest to catch. He had to wait until the neighbors who owned them let them out.

THESE cats never howled, but the board of health hasn't got time to test their vocal abilities.

WHY not let the cats live and still catch mice, but out out their stinging by amputating their vocal chords?

THIS wouldn't hurt their voice and except that once in a while they might capture a mouse off key.

WHEN a mouse is meeting between a set of teeth he doesn't stop to let whether the cat is on the scale or not.

SINCE the board of health has started this drive on alleys, all the germs have disappeared the common cats and are building new homes on polluted ground.

TRY TO FIND THE THING YOU CAN DO WELL THEN DO IT BETTER.

If you know the job for which you are fitted, why waste time in a position which means a square block trying to fit into a round groove?

There is much time lost in this world by persons who are daily spending their moments and the hours, lengthened into days, doing the very thing which they never can do well.

Sometimes it is because they cannot be satisfied to do the job for which they are adopted by experience or training.

They are groping for the higher thing, as they look at it. But why not look the matter in the face?

You cannot make black white, or the reverse. You cannot make a tall man short or a short man tall.

There are certain things which are unquestionably impossible. Try to find the thing you can do well and then do it better.

Recently I joined the present list of acquiring a good companion by the "purchasing" method. Meeting a young woman friend on the street just as we passed a young man, she remarked very loudly, "Elizabeth, since when did you begin using rouge?" Imagining my embarrassment when I looked around and caught the young man's amused smile. MRS. ELIZABETH SEIGEL, 31 Munroe St., Roxbury.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

Brown was making a visit to a girl in the country. While walking through the fields they noticed a cow and a calf rubbing noses in loving love. He spoke up: "The sight of that makes me want to do the same thing."

"Go ahead," she replied, "it's father's cow."

While visiting her aunt in the country little Mary went into the henhouse to collect the eggs. Finding an egg laid by a bantam she ran into the house and cried, "Oh Auntie, the chicken didn't have the right recipe for the egg."
